CURRENT ISSUES OF RESEARCH

1. Unforeseen Circumstances in Private Law

The research focuses on the distribution of contractual risk and the effects of unforeseen circumstances, with regard to the protection of the interests claimed by the party which confided in good faith on the maintenance of the existing situation at the time of the agreement, or confided on the occurrence of the common purpose, although this assumption has not made explicit in a term of the contract.

2. The New Inheritance Law in Europe

The research deals with the tools offered by the European Legislator in order to allow the transmission mortis causa of family assets with a focus on several legal issues relating to European citizens in transnational inheritance cases.
